

Working At Heights Medicals

Occupational Health Medicals for individuals working at heights are essential for several reasons, primarily related to ensuring the health and safety of workers in environments where there is a risk of falls or other hazards associated with working at elevated positions. Assessing Fitness for Duty
Identifying Pre-existing Medical Conditions Compliance with Regulations
Promoting Safety Culture Preventing Accidents and Injuries

Medicals Inclusion:

- Physical Examination
- Occupational History
- Social History
- Family History
- Blood Pressure Examination
- Eye Test (Snellen)
- Lung Function Test
- Audio Screening Test
- Urine Test
- Medical History
- Working at Heights Questionnaire
- Psychometric Evaluation